You are a very sweet daughter. you have been very spoiled at times. But all in all you are very nice. If you just would stay at home with me we could have had much more fun. But you had to run around with that old Clark. you started out to young with this puppy love stuff. But being you are so beautiful you can hardly blame the boys. Wishing you all the luck in the world. And much success in life.

your loving father,

Dear Betty,

You're truly one of the very sweetest girls I know!! We've had lots of fun in all these years - from our early friendship (city drug) right on through S.H.S. and I hope they will continue forever. Write me lots and think of me too next year. There's wishing you the very best of su-cc-ess-th-ing in whatever you undertake. I feel sure you will be a great success at Meredith. I'll never forget you and all the wonderful times we've had - Remember always that I think you're swell and that I love you lots & lots -

Forget me not!!!!!!

Dear Betty,

Every since I've known you I have put you first in everything. I hope I haven't slighted you in any way. I don't see how B. B. could have resisted you and now "C". C. is under your spell as well as me. Betty, honest and truthfully you're the best & swellest pal & friend anyone could have. I almost love you. Please don't ever forget me and our friendship. You're my pick of L.H.S. and you're first in everything as far as I'm concerned. Most senior girls are so stuck up & think their big me & little you. Not you, sweet heart. I'll never forget you and here's hoping you have a most successful life and forever happiness. Just be half like your mother & you'll pass any one.

Yours and friendship,

J. E.

Betty —
You're really a sweet gal — & the very best as a friend — I'll miss you next year — So come to see me — We've had lots of fun this year — Don't forget it —
Bill

BILL GORDON
Editor-in-Chief

To give you a sample of our everyday "Life" at L.H.S., to reflect the spirit of our traditions and activities, to portray the fervor of football and the vividness of personalities—that is the purpose of our 1941 LEXICON. Those things which we shall best remember are the little things, those inconsequentials that forget the existence of English grammar and algebra—Homecoming—Hi-Y initiation—Jay Jyser—Grip's grin—saddle shoes—hot chocolate at Kingsport.

It is the purpose of our LEXICON to preserve for you a few of these memories and to lie in wait for those moments years hence when it can call forth a smile or two and lie back and feel that it has served its purpose well.

You're o.k., Betty. I'll miss you, but I'm glad I converted you to the right path. Best wishes in everything always.
Mildred Ann Critcher

We had fun being editor together, didn't we? Really I like you lots and I'll not forget you —
Betty

Lexicon

Virginia Olive
Business Manager

This year's staff, with Bill Gordon at its head has worked with this in view. The 1941 Lexicon has been planned by the staff at large and the copy has been compiled by Betty Cuthrell and Betty Ward as Senior Editors, Frances Louise McKay as Junior Editor, Jean Griffith as Sophomore Editor, Bill Tuttle as Freshman Editor, and Belvin Beck as Sports Editor. Burke Craver, staff photographer has taken practically all of the group pictures and deserves credit for diligence and merit. To Robert Stevenson goes credit for creative work done in art.

The Business Manager, Virginia Olive, has supervised the financing of the book. She has been aided by Vernon Price, Advertising Manager, and by Elizabeth Davis, Dorothy Spruill, William Daniels, and Hoyt Sink, business assistants.

THE DEDICATION:

Mrs. Ottis M. Hedrick

Betty, you have been a joy to teach, and I'm sure you'll continue your good work. Don't forget Senior English and I'll follow you with interest.

To Mrs. Ottis Hedrick

Who through literature, friendship, and example, has sought to teach us "Life" as it is most worthwhile, we, the staff, dedicate this 1941 volume of the Lexicon

Reports on Outstanding Events by Calvin Koonts, Class Historian

Four years ago at Lexington High School, there came the necessity for a new freshman class. This need was infallibly supplied, for when the gates were opened in September, one hundred ninety-five green little freshmen "crossed the bar" for the first time. We were frightened that morning, and although we had a peculiar feeling of trepidation which we had never experienced before, we were proud that we had at least reached the goal of our childish ambitions.

It was indeed a hard journey, that first year of high school, and we as simple eighth-graders had much to learn. It seemed almost impossible to meet six classes a day with six different teachers, and actually be allowed to exist in an institution with "home rooms," "lockers," and "study halls" was unbelievable. We were happy and sedulous though, and before the first semester had passed were providing stiff competition for the upperclassmen in all school activities, clubs, athletics, and scholarship. With Miss Isobel Craven, Miss Freta Hoffner, and Mr. Vincent Kelly as our guiding lights, and with our class officers, Fred Michael, president; Laurence Owens, vice president; and Carolyn Smith, secretary-treasurer, we soon established ourselves as the most prominent class ever to enter Lexington High. Thus we eventually completed our first year, and we moved on, "unwept, unhonored, and unsung."

"Yet the strong man must go," so with the exception of a few, all of us returned as sophomores for our second year of high school life. Under the capable leadership of Alvin Philpott, Cecil Eanes, and "Bill" Gordon, president, vice president, and secretary-treasurer respectively, we immediately set to work to maintain the good reputation we had already established. All of us assumed a superior air and with pleasure carried out our moral obligation—that of showing the freshmen their status in high school. In doing so, we continued to hold our importance, and soon were invited into every phase of school activity. Again our class dominated all organizations; and music, literary, dramatic, and social circles claimed the ambitious for their own. Many of our best athletes found positions on the football and basketball squads, and toward the close of the year, a few of our luckier members even rated a "Footlighters" production. But "time was fleeting," and before long we sailed on to an unconquered world—our junior year.

"All good things are ours" and in 1939 we took possession of them. With a new principal to exhilarate the school, an improved building, an excellent faculty, and new ideas, we entered upon what was to be our most memorable and enjoyable period. We were juniors now, and athletics, class rings, examinations, LEXICON, and Lexhipep—all these became a part in our busy life. If you reminisce a bit, perhaps you will recall what brilliant records our junior boys made in football and basketball that year, and that our class again placed officers and members in all honorary, journalistic, and literary societies of the school. Such outstanding productions as "Three Days of Grace," "Gone With the Men," and Dicken's "Christmas Carol" can never be forgotten either. And then in May came the greatest event of the year, the Junior-Senior Banquet—the apex of all our efforts. Approximately two hundred fifty students were present, and everywhere the banquet was declared the loveliest and best ever given a Lexington High School senior class. After a perfect year with Virginia Olive, Bill Woodruff, and "Bill" Gordon as our leaders, we came to the close of our junior term with "one fight more, the best and the last."

The summer of '40 passed quickly, and with the reopening of school we found ourselves "Dignified Seniors." With the triumphal victories of our freshman, sophomore, and junior years to spur us onward toward that final goal, we entered upon our last year's grind. Again we elected competent officers: president, Alvin Philpott; vice president, Betty Cuthrell; secretary, Edna Earle Cameron; and treasurer, Calvin Koonts. They have done their work well, and with the invaluable assistance of Mrs. Ottis M. Hedrick, senior adviser, we have continued to maintain our tradition as our school's most outstanding class.

Today we are seniors; tomorrow we are a part of another world, our school days over, and our Alma Mater but a tender memory.

As we stand on the Brink of Departure facing that inevitable hour when all that was is no more, let not our hopes die. Rather let us as individuals commence anew:

"What I aspired to be,
And was not, comforts me.
The future I may face
Now I have proved the past."

Senior Class Makes Prophecy

How glad I was today to find in the mail a large envelope within which was an invitation to the Class of '41's reunion. Within my heart I was overjoyed at the thought of being with my old classmates again after ten long years. Anxiously waiting for the day, I began to think about my friends, many of whom I had not seen since our graduation together. I was thrilled at the thought that on only a few days we would all be together again.

The day arrives and the reunion is held at the Country Club which is inspiringly decorated with our class colors. As the guests begin to arrive and the air becomes one of familiarity, I immediately recognize Parks Easter and Albert Ebelein, still bachelors, and now joint-owners of Purcell's Drug Store. Following them I see Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lambeth. (He is now owner of Redwine's Grocery.) Who is it that they are in such deep conversation with? Oh, yes, I recognize them to be Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conrad. (She's the former Juanita Yeomans.) Frank tells me that he has his own studio now. Also Baylor Gray, an artist, has placed some of his works in the Corcan Art Gallery in Washington, D. C.

I am now with a group of athletic looking girls who are physical-ed teachers: Frances Dobson, Betty Huffman, and Frances Holt. I also recognize three promising chemists: Bill Hankins, "Speck" Clark, and Robert Hinkle of the Du Pont Laboratories. I remember how they strived to pass Mr. Tucker's chemistry.

Over in a corner I see six familiar faces in a discussion on sports. They are none other than Fred Green and Rusty Craver, football coaches of Duke; Laurence Owens, football coach at Appalachian; also Bill Myers and "Fat" Price, former All-Americans. There come two fashion designers, Lillian Raper and Betty Ann Sharpe, who have just returned from New York. Following them is a group of nurses who are Martha Brown, Jo Doris Johnson, Virginia Hunt, Maurine Shoaf, Martha Fritts, Mildred Everhart, Margaret Everhart, and Laura Mae Michael. By the punch bowl I see John Smith, the city's Political Boss, talking with Bobby Peacock, head of the C.I.O.

The guests tonight will be served ice cream from the new dairy owned by Jack Anderson and Paul Spurrier, ably assisted by Jack Weddington, the business manager. A hushed silence falls upon the crowd as the entertainment begins with Joan Peeler, now a blues singer for the Stork Club in New York, singing. She is accompanied by a famed pianist, Marguerite Koonts, who made her debut in Carnegie Hall. And now we have a contrast in music as Betty Outz raises her baton to direct her All-Girl Orchestra. Mary Beck, playing the saxophone and Mary Pickett, the piano, make up part of the orchestra.

As the crowd once more scatters, I see some late arrivals. They are important business men about town: Bill Woodruff, owner of Woodruff's Shoe store; L. T. Frye, owner of Frye Electric Company; and Henry McCulloch, owner of McCulloch's Jewelry Store.

Familiar faces once again surround me as I find myself talking to a group of office secretaries. They are Lois Koonts, Nellie Lamb, Mabel Leonard, Virgie Avery, Dulcie Ayers, Ruth Allen, and Margaret Reeves. Perhaps I am intruding in their conversation, so I'll drift on to another interesting group composed of Mrs. "Cae" Stroud (the former Betty Ward), Mrs. Elton Craver (the former "Fagg" Leonard), and Mrs. Lewis Hartzog (the former "Bill" Gordon). It seems that they are in a happy discussion of their five years of married life.

Here come two more coaches, "Shu" Carlton and "Chip" Clark, still married to "Jenky" and Dot. They are talking with Calvin Carrick, manager of the famed baseball club, the Indians, with Dick Peacock, his assistant manager. Over here I find myself among some prominent people of the New York Times Staff. They are: Edna Earle Cameron, Editor; Jack Witherspoon, Business Manager; Burke Craver, Photographer; and Joyce Cope, a reporter for the paper.

Don Cherry tells me that he is now

managing the new theater in Lexington with Frank Leonard as his assistant. Olga Barnes is the ticket girl. Speaking of theaters, here comes Louise Harris, Edna Stutz, and Jimmy Hulin, all promising stars. Also from the stage are Silba Aaron and Arthur Miller who have just taken leave from their production, "Roses Are Red," which was a hit on Broadway. I see Isabelle Dillon, the city librarian, and her two assistants, Nancy Clayton and Mattie Cecil, stopping to talk with Frances Farabee and Hilda Shoaf who are both air hostesses on the Transcontinental Airlines. Also with them are Bruce Tussey and Hovis Spurrier, air pilots for same line.

Over here I feel out of place talking with such intelligent people as Calvin Koonts and Alger Barnes, both professors at Harvard University, and with them is Dr. George Curry and his laboratory technician, Betty Cuthrell. I don't know why I haven't noticed him before, but here is Alvin Philpott, former class president, now the present governor of North Carolina, and his bride-to-be, Carolyn Smith, who has been a professional drum-majorette.

There's Etrulia Morgan, Mae Moody, and Lucille Overman. They are running a day nursery in town. They are talking with John Burke Leonard, the great baritone, and his two financiers, James Burkehead and James Byrd. Following them is a group of optimistic young men better known as the Bachelor's Association of Lexington. They are David Agner, Ned Beck, Jay Kivett, Garland Leonard, Conrad Penninger, and Ernest Rufty. Coming over to me now are John Kirk and Ishmael Tate, owners of the Ritz Spot, Lexington's only night club. The waitresses are Sylvia Goins, Donnie Hewitt, and Florence Leonard. Also, Grant Revelle is the popular vocalist of the club. He is still unmarried but is every girl's heart-throb.

I am talking to some girls who have just returned from a tour conducting cooking demonstrations throughout the state. They are Nettie Lee Craven, Louise Cross, Gladys Delk, Rachael Hedrick, Irene Sharpe, Rachael Simerson, Elizabeth Sink, and Doris Lohr.

Here I see a group of a few more business men: Stacey Foster, who owns the Used Car Lot, is talking with his assistants, Herman Fleming and Billy Hartley; also Bruce Black, who is now a carpenter; and the owners of the new Print Craft Shop, Donald Jenkins, Walter Johnson, and Ray Craver. Some of Lexington's modern filling stations are owned by Vestal Everhart, Roland Gibson and John Dougan. I also find out that Jesse Leonard has invented a new speed-racer that runs without gasoline. He has gained renowned fame. There are Fletcher Wall and "Pig" Thomason, two prominent lawyers, talking with clients, Hayes Dougan and Ben Leonard, owners of local Dry-Goods Store. Who is it that has attracted so many girls over here? Oh, yes—it is Calvin Hedrick, a local beautician talking with his assistants, Willie Vae McCrary, Mildred Yarbough, Elizabeth Vanderford, Lois Sink, and Moline Smith. Looking over in another corner, I recognize a group of prosperous farmers discussing crops with William Lanning and Elmer Sprye, two tobacco buyers for Lucky Strike. Who are these sailors in our midst? They are officers Carl Leonard and J. L. Osborne, taking leave from the Navy just to be with us.

Over here I see Mr. and Mrs. Wade Osborne (we all remember Selma), talking with Mr. and Mrs. George Hatley. (She is the former Alice Mae Hege.) Wade and George are now owners of the Erlanger Cotton Mills. And here are the South's greatest sales girls, Marie Tesh, Geraldine Thomason, Lois Swing, Inez Smith, and Hester Washburn. Christine Young is the head stenographer.

Here are four distinguished looking men of Wall Street. They are Vestal Lanning, Shelly Yarborough, E. R. Weaver, and Archie Washburn. Looking over the crowd once more I recognize two prominent people, Senator Belvin Beck talking with the Secretary of Labor, Virginia Olive.

The crowd once more begins to scatter about. And now as all good things must come to an end, so the hour in which friends have to part arrives. 'Til we meet again, here's hoping that old friends will always remain good friends.

LEXICON ON THE NEWSFRONT:

Last Will and Testament

We, the Senior Class of 1941, realizing our approaching graduation in June, and, being sound in mind and body, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament:

Article I. To the Faculty

Item I. To Mrs. Cuthrell, we leave a sharp pair of scissors with which to "cut it."

Item II. To Mrs. Hedrick and the Lexhipep staff, we leave a private Lexhipep room.

Item III. Miss Mathews' second period typing class, thinking of next year's classes, generously donates some window shades—so as to keep the sunshine out of the room.

Item IV. To Mr. Hensley is left seventy-five rootin', tootin' students who are eager to become a part of his one hundred piece band.

Article II. To Individuals

Item I. Bill Gordon leaves to Ginny Madsen a large megaphone to use next year when she becomes Chief Cheer Leader.

Item II. Joan Peeler bequeaths to Jeanne Williamson her golden voice.

Item III. To Frances Louise McKay and Hal Smith, Betty Ward and Jimmie Hulin leave their title of "best dressed boy and girl."

Item IV. To anyone having the ability to blow his nose as loud as David Agner, the latter will leave one of his large white handkerchiefs.

Item V. Calvin Koonts leaves to Emily Bower his superior intelligence.

Item VI. To the Junior Football Squad, the graduating members of the football team leave a booklet which they have written and titled "How To Win Football Games—Taught In Six Easy Lessons," in the hopes that L.H.S. will turn out a winning team in 1941.

Item VII. Louise Leonard leaves to the long, empty halls of L.H.S. echoes of her silvery peals of laughter.

Item VIII. Mary Beck leaves to Mildred Fleming her ambition to grow tall.

Item IX. Alvin Philpott offers his sparkling personality, which is a helpful thing to have, to Bruce Craver.

Item X. Edna Earle Cameron leaves the editorship of the Lexhipep to Elaine Shaw.

Item XI. Virginia Olive bequeaths to Jean Griffith her excellent gift of oratory.

Item XII. Isabelle Dillon surrenders her raven-black tresses to Lyndol Leonard.

Item XIII. Ivey Grimes, Carl Leonard, Bill Woodruff, and Sammy Shoaf leave their stage crew suits to the members of next year's stage crew (who-ever they may be).

Item XIV. Marguerite Koontz bequeaths to Peggy Miller her excellent ability of tickling piano ivories.

Item XV. Edna Earle Cameron leaves to Frances Louise McKay her personality plus, all wrapped with pink paper and tied with blue ribbons.

Item XVI. Lois Koonts leaves her dependability to Dot Spruill.

Item XVII. Burke Craver, with a note of regret, wills to William Daniels the managership of the band.

Item XVIII. Carolyn Smith leaves her blond-beauty to Lib Davis.

Item XIX. Baylor Gray surrenders his artistic ability to a worthy successor, Rachel Hudson.

Item XX. Betty Ann Sharpe bequeaths her outstanding alto voice to Mary C. Beck, with fondest hopes that she will ably replace her vacancy in the Glee Club.

Item XXI. Mary Pickett and Jack Witherspoon leave to Bill Raker and Frances Holt Yarborough their dramatic powers.

Article III. To the Classes

Item I. To the up-and-coming Seniors we leave:

(1) Our fondest hopes that they will set high standards in scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

(2) Our caps and gowns, along with a supply of moth balls to preserve them until graduation time.

(3) The envious status of "Dignified Seniors."

Item II. To the Sophomore Class, we leave the exacting problem of securing enough money for the Junior-Senior Banquet.

Item III. To the Freshmen, we leave our "get-up-and-go" manner, and the sincere hope that they get through their high school days as successfully and triumphantly as we did.

We, the members of the 1941 Senior Class, in witness whereof, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament.

Signed, sealed, and published this first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one, Anno Domini.

Lexicon Reviews

Last year, after our Lexington High Yellowjackets fought forward to be claimants of the North Carolina State Championship in football, we didn't think it likely to happen again for several years. However, we reckoned without Coaches Tom Young, Tucker and "Grip" Daughtery; we had to be shown in the Wilson game that last year's undefeated "Suicide Squad," Rusty Craver, Alvin Philpott, Dick Peacock, Pig Thomason, and Red Lambeth, would turn into a teeth-gritting tornado, a pass-snatching center, a streak of lightning with the ball, and a whole reservoir of first-string material; we forgot about Coach Young's old shoes, Sylvester's curly head, and most of all, the fierce fight of the L.H.S. squad. But we got evidence soon and plenty!

It all started out at Holt-Moffit field when the line opened up for Chip Clark, Bill Myers, Pig Thomason, and Shu Carlton to push over for 19 points to Wilson's cipher. Still, it was questionable! But Albemarle, Salisbury, Kannapolis, and finally High Point in rapid succession bowed to the fight of the team. The second string were showing their stuff, the passes were soaring, and we were learning. The first half of the season put football in the air, both at school and at the field.

Then came Homecoming Day and Barium, one of the oldest and toughest opponents on the schedule. We dressed up the school to say to our boys that we were convinced that they were tops in football. We acclaimed L.H.S. the "Football Queen of the Carolinas," and went out to see the title proved in the toughest game we had seen. It looked close for a while, and at the half with the score 0-0, the continuous yelling increased. Soon, however, the spark caught and Myers and Thomason plunged through for touchdowns. With one extra point from Myers' toe, we won 13-0.

The next week disaster befell us when Alvin Philpott, spunky end, fractured an arm in practice, and at Thomasville, one stalwart "Fats" Price, veteran All-State guard and hole-maker, was injured on the first play. After a very slow first half, we were relieved to pull out by a 21-0 margin. It remained to be seen at the Children's Home game what our team would do. It was our last home game, and we saw a powerful team down an excellent Children's Home eleven, 41-0. Ben

The 1940 Games

Leonard at end and Ishmael Tate at guard proved to be worthy additions to the first string.

Therefore, climaxing a great season, Lexington boys left to meet Kingsport, Tennessee champions, on November 14. It was a memorable occasion! "Fats" Price and Alvin Philpott helped the cheering students to give a lusty send-off to our "Wonder Team." The band and the girls turned out with "WE'RE LOYAL," yells and even a few tears to show their just pride and confidence. A good following of Lexington fans went out to praise the merits of Bill Myers, our triple-threat quarterback; Shu Carlton and Pig Thomason, both runners; Rusty Craver, hard-hitting and straight-shooting blocking back; Dick Peacock, center; Chip Clark, potential All-State end; Laurence Owens and Wade Osborne, hole-proof tackles; Red Lambeth, newly-converted running guard; Ishmael and Ben, our already proved pinch-hitters; a lusty backing-up squad; and last, but not least, our plucky unfortunates, Fats and Alvin. The game was played in a Tennessee snow blizzard, but when the game ended with a 13-0 score in our favor, and the Lexington fans rushed out to take the boys from the field on shoulders, there was victory and rejoicing for Lexington. Kingsport, undefeated in several years, offered our 1940 climax and it put us in the South Atlantic running.

Concord in its turn felt the might of the Lexington attack and we ended a perfect season, on November 27 with a 39-0 score, making a grand total of 299 points to our opponents 6. However, again we were called. An All-Star team from the three Winston-Salem high schools invited us to meet them, and we put in our last claim for the Southern high school championship with a 25-0 victory.

And so, it would be sacrilege for the LEXICON not to hail these the stars of our season. First, the squad; then, Coach Young for his coaching in football and in character; Coaches Tucker and Daughtery; the band for their support; the cheer leaders, from Chief Bill Gordon all through their ranks; the students and faculty and the fans for their support—all these contributed to the building of our

The Lexington High School Baseball team for 1941 is composed almost entirely of veterans. In early games the team looked exceptionally strong in beating Hanes High, 8 to 2, and Mills Home, 9 to 3.

The prospects are very encouraging and the Lexington team should rank with the first three in the final standings of the South Piedmont Conference.

The Student Council is the central student organization of Lexington High School. This Council consists of members, taken from the four classes equally; every homeroom has a representative on the council to serve with the seven general officers elected annually by Australian ballot. The council endeavors to set up high standards for the school in scholarship and conduct. It seeks to improve school conditions and tries to help all students by interpreting student wishes and ideas.

The council meets weekly to consider such business as the chartering of clubs, the enforcing of the point system, school elections, and weekly routine matters. These meetings serve as a clearing house for student ideas and opinions.

This year the council has visited and received visitors from other schools in the state, and has thus worked to promote sportsmanship between schools. It has operated the school store, which, under the direction of Isabelle Dillon, Council Treasurer, and her able assistants, has been most profitable and has afforded enjoyment to the students. Also, the council has undertaken the furnishing of a student room at the entrance of the building. This room is open to students in the mornings and at lunch hour and is quite a popular place. During classes a committee of council members act as hosts in the room and do good work as members of an information bureau.

The 1940-41 Student Council has done much to improve the activities at L.H.S. and is due much credit from those who support it.

The Girl Reserve Club of Lexington High School is an honorary club which is limited to twenty girls. Each year it strives to raise the ideals of its members and other girls. A person chosen for membership must possess such outstanding qualities as leadership, scholarship, and character. As members they set their ideals toward reverence to God; eagerness for knowledge; enduring dependability; and impartiality in judgment.

Throughout the year they had well known citizens of Lexington as their speakers. During Christmas and Thanksgiving, they prepared baskets for unfortunate families. At the end of the year, they gave their annual Mother-Daughter banquet which was memorable to all members and mothers that attended. On the more informal side, the Girl Reserves presented "Cinderella Up-to-Date" to win third place in Stunt Night, and, observing a tradition, entertained the Hi-Y at a picnic.

Membership

The Hi-Y Club is one of the most outstanding clubs in Lexington High School. Membership is based on character, leadership, and service. By conforming to their purpose, "To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character," the members are able to erect a higher and clearer perspective of life; they are able to live up to their motto, "Character through service"; and they are able to uphold their platform, "Clean speech, clean sports, clean scholarship, clean living."

ACTIVITIES

The club in its bimonthly meetings has outstanding men in the community to come speak to the members on various interesting and beneficial subjects. This year's club has undertaken some of the largest projects ever attempted by the local Hi-Y Club. The club published a twelve page homecoming program, which was a tremendous success, for the Barium-Lexington game. During the Christmas season it sponsored a tin-can show for the poor people of Lexington. On the lighter side of its activities, the club presented "Dr. I. Killem." During the spring a picnic was given to the Girl Reserve Club. The climax of this banner year was the annual Father-Son Banquet, which event some two hundred fifty members and guests attended.

VOCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

Lexington High School's Vocational Department was expanded this year with the induction of a Diversified Occupations program. The new program is a coöperative arrangement between the high school and local business and industrial firms; whereby, students attend school in the morning and work part-time in the afternoon. The object of the part-time work is to gain practical experience in a chosen vocation. Students devote two periods of their school time to the study of related technical information to the job being learned.

Students taking Diversified Occupations must be 16 years of age and must have made a vocational choice. A coöperating firm must be secured to give the student part-time employment.

Mr. Kelly is the coördinator of the Diversified Occupations this year. The following occupations are represented: auto mechanic, department store work, printer, machinist, electrician, textile work, embalmer, furniture factory work, service station attendant, and jeweler.

The course does not guarantee employment to the student after graduation, but his chances of placement are highly probable.

The Lexington High School Band has increased until it is now composed of fifty members. New uniforms in the school colors, orange and blue, for the entire band, were bought by the Civic Clubs of the city. Under the direction of Mr. Sam Hensley, this musical organization attended the District Music Convention in Winston-Salem and won first place in its division. It has played at various local activities and county commencement exercises. With the backing of the citizens and the splendid direction of Mr. Hensley, our band is sure to attain recognition as an outstanding high school band in the state.

EXODUS:

By O. G. Jenkins, Jr.
Class Poet

Though the years have passed like water in its ever seaward glide,
The beginning like the ending seems so very, very, near.
We'll remember Alma Mater with an ever growing pride,
And this great old institution we'll forever hold as dear.

Let us face the living present, though we know not what our fate;
It may not be very pleasant in these turbulent times of strife,
But let's smile and hold our heads up, laugh at what e'er may await.
Just inject a stream of humor in the sordid flow of life.

BUILDERS of DREAMS
VISIONS created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of imagination into the finished fabric is equally important.
It has been the privilege of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY to co-operate with the staff in creating their vision into material form.
Such coöperation is one of the "visions" which precede the building of a successful business, and is a part of the working policy of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY.
To those Staffs desiring complete co-operation, we offer unexcelled service.
You, too, may be proud of your annual.

Dear Betty,
I'm glad I've had the privilege to associate with you. I think you are very sweet and lovely. Best of everything to one who deserves it. Don't forget me.
Love, "Fannie" Holt Y.

Dear Betty —
I have enjoyed "going places & doing things" with you so much this year. It has been so much fun and I'm going to miss you next year. I know you'll make good at Meredith — I wish you all the luck & success you deserve. You're really tops in my opinion!! —

Love,
Bill

Betty I has really been fun being with you this year and I hope it won't end here. I'm glad that I have been lucky enough to have you as what I call "a close friend." So remember; "Dick" W.R.P.

Dearest Betty,
I am very sorry that all of our crowd have to leave this year. I will miss all of you very much next year. Please try never to forget these years in L.H.S. To me they have all been more fun than any of us could possibly deserve to have.

always,
Fletcher

Dear Droop ——

I hope you have enjoyed this year as much as I have. Although things were a little mixed up at times – I think we still had a big time. Next year you had better write me regardless of what happens this summer – I hope nothing will but – anyway Droop I think you is fine peoples and I'll never forget you. In future years I'll always look back and always remember.

Love – Me

Dear Betty,

I have enjoyed my four year at L.H.S. with you – I only hope that our four years at Meadick (if we stay there that long) will be just as grand as these four have been. you have been a sweet classmate and friend. I hope to be with you next September for four more years so I won't say Goodbye but Good luck – Isabelle

Dear Betty,

We've really had fun in school together and I'll never forget you! I wish you all the luck in the world at Meredith! You're a swell friend - and I hope our friendship will last! (Tell Clark I think he's pretty lucky - and here's wishing success to both of you!)

Love,
Enid

Dearest Betty,

This year (and thru all the others) we have had a friendship that I hope will continue in the future. We have really had some swell times together and I certainly won't ever forget. (Junior - Senior Banquet remember?) Here's wishing you all the luck and happiness in the world at college and most of all — my fine friend "Kip". Stay as sweet and pretty as you are, cause I love ya.

Mary

Dear Betty,

A better friend I don't expect to have. You are a grand girl, a loyal friend, and a good example for freshmen! Lets hope they follow your example. I expect big things of you so good luck & best wishes. Juanita.

Dear Betty,

We've had a wonderful time these four years and I hope it will continue even though we are all going in different directions. I'll always remember you Betty and I hope you will do the same.

Love,
Mattie

Dear Betty,

I've enjoyed knowing you all these years so much — and the last four have been wonderful!

I can't put in words how much I'll miss you so please write, visit and sometime think of —
